- 1p 1 Wat wordt er gezegd over het Halloweenfeestje van Robbie?
- A Emma heeft zonder dat ze het wist een worm opgegeten.
 - B Er waren snoepjes die precies op wormen leken.
 - C Robbins broertje had overal wormen losgelaten.

A wormy Halloween!

My friend Robbie threw a Halloween party, and there were bowls of icky stuff all over the place, like peeled grapes for eyeballs and blood red juice to drink. Robbie dared me to eat a worm from the bowl sitting off to the side. It looked just like crumbled brownies with spaghetti strands mixed in, so I stuck the strands in my mouth without a second glance. As soon as it was in my mouth, something felt funny. I gulped it down, and when I looked at the bowl again, I realized it wasn't filled with brownies, but actual dirt! And the strands were too thick to be spaghetti - they were real worms! It wasn't actually a part of the Halloween decorations - it was Robbie's brother's science project, and I ate it! I washed the worm down with lots of chocolate.

- 1p 2 Hoe kon Jan Madsen voorkomen dat hij van het dak van zijn huis gleed?
- A Hij kon zich vastgrijpen aan de dakrand.
 - B Hij riep om hulp en werd op tijd gered.
 - C Hij spijkerde zich per ongeluk vast aan een balk.

Lucky Handyman

A Do-It-Yourself enthusiast who slipped and fell while fixing the roof of his holiday home was saved from almost certain death after nailing himself to the building.
As he tried to stop himself from falling, Jan Madsen (28) accidentally fired the nail gun through his knee and pierced a wooden beam.
It took emergency crews more than an hour to free Mr Madsen from the roof of the house. He is expected to make a full recovery.

- A 25% van de Chinese vrouwen die net getrouwden zijn, heeft spijt.
 - B 25% van de Chinese vrouwen overweegt binnenkort te gaan scheiden.
 - C 25% van de Chinese vrouwen wil liever ongetrouwed blijven.

Chinese brides happy?

BEIJING: One in four newly-married Chinese women responding to a recent survey, say they wish they had picked a different husband or stayed single, The China Daily reported yesterday.

The survey of 1,073 newly-wed couples was carried out by a dating website, marry5.com. "Only 75% of wives said they would stick with their current husband, if they could choose again." It didn't say whether the survey results gave reasons for the wives' unhappiness with their marriage. - AP

Bilbo, the doggy-paddling lifeguard

1 Bilbo, a five-year-old Newfoundland, has become Britain's only fully-qualified canine lifeguard. He has passed fitness and swimming tests to join the team that patrols the busy beach at Sennen Cove in Cornwall. He even has his own lifeguard's vest with a safety message 'swim between the red and yellow flags' written across to warn holidaymakers not to go beyond the official swimming and surfing areas.

2 "Everyone loves him and he's become an essential part of the team," says Steve James, Bilbo's owner and the head lifeguard on the beach.

"If an alert comes in, his ears start twitching and he knows something is on.

Once when we were at an otherwise deserted beach checking our equipment, he heard some surfboarders shouting. He ran into the water and swam out to them.

They weren't in any danger at all, but just enjoying themselves. But Bilbo was there in case they needed him."

3 At the moment Bilbo is being taught to manoeuvre himself next to casualties¹ in the water so they can grab onto him. Steve, who often patrols on a quad bike with Bilbo sitting on the back, says: "We are also training him to grab people by their clothes and pull them into the shore. He is also learning how to turn side-on in the water so that a casualty can use him as a lifebuoy². He will then swim to shore and to safety. He has already successfully done this in a try-out with me and I weigh 80 kilos!"

4 Like any lifeguard, Bilbo enjoys being in the water. The Newfoundland comes from the island from which it takes its name and is thought to be a mixture of ancient, native Indian dogs and many European breeds. Their great size and fondness for water makes them ideal rescue dogs.

I Exposed a Crime of Fashion!

While at the mall, shopping for a new spring wardrobe, I ran into a girl from school named Dawn, whose parents are filthy rich. She saw me in the dressing room trying on expensive jeans and commented, "Are you sure you can afford those, girl?" What a nerve! She soon paid the price for her snobbery, though. I waited for her to go into a changing stall before I dropped a few items with the security tags still attached into her unattended shopping bag. When Dawn tried to exit the store, the sensors went off and her face turned bright red. The mall cops searched her - and discovered some more stuff tucked into her shirt!

Trista

- 1p 9 Waarom werd Trista kwaad op Dawn toen ze een spijkerbroek aan het passen was?
- A Dawn kwam zonder te vragen het kleedhokje binnen.
B Dawn vroeg of ze wel genoeg geld had voor zo'n dure broek.
C Dawn zei dat de spijkerbroek Trista helemaal niet stond.
- 1p 10 Hoe nam Trista wraak op Dawn?
- A door Dawn aan te geven bij de politie
B door haar portemonnee uit haar tas te stelen
C door onbetaalde kledingstukken in Dawns tas te stoppen
- 1p 11 Wat bleek achteraf toen Dawn was aangehouden?

Fresh Pineapple Tips

- Shell color is not necessarily an indication of ripeness. Fresh ripe pineapple color may vary from green to gold.
- Pineapple will not ripen further once it is picked.
- Cut the fruit from the shell and refrigerate in an airtight container. Use within one week.

Field Ripened - Ready to eat.

Specially cultivated and carefully inspected to ensure delicious pineapple at the peak of flavor.

Cutting instructions.

- Cut off crown.
- Cut fruit in half, then into quarters.
- Cut off core.
- Cut fruit from shell with a sharp, curved knife.
- Cut into bite-size chunks.

- 1p 13 Op een chatsite staat de volgende vraag:

'Do you and your mates copy each other's schoolwork or do you always do it on your own? Is copying stealing, cheating, or is it somehow OK?'

Wie vindt dat overschrijven moet kunnen?

- A Harriet
- B Brooke
- C Hannah
- D Félicia

I hate it when people get away with copying in tests, get good results and get the credit for it.

Harriet

It's really unfair to copy, particularly when someone else has put in the effort to learn the work.

Brooke

I copy things off the internet all the time. As long as you read through it, it's not such a big deal. I think it's alright to copy work of other people if it's homework and you know yourself how to do it, but you have no time to do it yourself.

That's what friends are for, right?

Hannah

Copying is for losers! It won't get you anywhere. You should pay more attention in class so you can do it yourself.

Crisps with a bitter taste

- 1 Pupils in Gloucester had been eating thousands of packets of Walkers crisps because they believed they were helping a “disabled” baby before they found it was all a bad joke. It all began when a council official received an email telling him that Walkers, the crisp company would pay for treatment for a child born without an arm, if they received the weight of the baby in empty crisps packets. The official sent this email to 310 schools in Gloucester.
- 2 Parents, children and teachers happily began eating Walkers crisps. One school even organised an ‘eat-in’ where four bins with empty bags were collected. But when one school called Walkers to ask about weighing their load, it turned out to be a bad joke. Local headmaster Lawrence Montague said: “I find it disgusting that anyone could play such a trick on children.”

- 1p 15 Waarom aten veel leerlingen in Gloucester zoveel chips? (alinea 1)
- 1p 16 Wie stuurde een e-mailtje naar al die scholen in Gloucester? (alinea 1)
- A de directeur Lawrence Montague
 - B de directie van de Walkers chipsfabriek
 - C de ouderraad van een school
 - D een gemeenteambtenaar van Gloucester
- 1p 17 Waarom was directeur Lawrence Montague volgens alinea 2 zo boos?
- A omdat kinderen voor de gek waren gehouden
 - B omdat Walkers niet aan de actie wilde meedoen
 - C omdat zijn school er voor niets zoveel tijd in had gestoken
- 1p 18 Welke woorden uit de tekst geven de kern het verhaal het beste weer?
- A a “disabled” baby (alinea 1)
 - B a bad joke (alinea 2)
 - C an eat-in (alinea 2)

- 1p 19 Op een chatsite geven jongeren tips over het meedoen aan de auditie voor het TV-programma Pop Idol.
→ Wie geeft een tip over het uitstralen van zelfvertrouwen? Schrijf de naam op.

WHAT ARE YOUR TOP AUDITION TIPS?

My tip is: just have fun! Plus, remember that although there are thousands of people auditioning, someone has to get picked. It could be you.

Sarah, 20, Rochdale

I think you should wear clothes that stand out. And if the judges send you away, it's not the end of the world.

Samantha, 17, Rochdale

Speak up loud with a smile on your face. Being quiet and looking at the floor won't get you anywhere. The chances are that the judges are looking for a confident interested person.

Mark, 14, Gravesend

Don't think about the big day too much. The night before the audition get lots of sleep. It's not a good thing to turn up with bags under your eyes. And get a bottle of water with you!

Daniel, 15, Battle

My best friend and I went to Pop Idol. We had to queue for hours in the cold, so my tip is to be patient and wear warm clothes.

Melissa, 18, Bedford

Practise your lyrics a lot but don't try to do it all at once. Also the night before, just let yourself relax, don't worry you know your lyrics.

Emily, 16, London

The best auditioning tip I could give is to sing with emotion. And, if necessary, pretend no-one else is watching you. It really helps a lot!

Amber, 16, Durham

Being bullied changed my life.....for the better

- 1 “School was really difficult for me. I find it hard to talk to new people and make friends with them, because I am very shy. At the beginning of secondary school, I was even known as the ‘silent twin’ because I wouldn’t talk to anyone except my sister. I felt no one was interested in what I was saying, so I just closed down.
- 2 Some of the kids at school started bullying me and calling me names. As I didn’t have anyone to go out with, I used to buy piles of magazines and spend my weekends reading them from cover to cover. I loved clothes and I dreamt of being a designer when I left school, but I never thought it would happen.
- 3 When I saw a poster advertising a fashion show project, I was interested to find out more. The winners were going to make their own collection of clothes with the help of some well-known designers and put on a catwalk show at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London. Designing clothes was something I’d always wanted to do but I never believed I’d be good enough. I was nervous but I decided I had to take part in the fashion show project.
- 4 I couldn’t believe it when I found out I was chosen for the project. When I went to my first session, I felt absolutely sick with nerves. I had to work together with Asabi, who was a refugee from Nigeria.

Chantal Reefs, 17

- 5 The rest of her family were still in Africa and she lived on her own in a shelter for the homeless. It made me realise how many people have things to overcome in their lives.
- 6 The months leading up to the show were the busiest I’d ever had. I learnt about so many different aspects of making clothes from designing to selecting materials to use. I also found out how I wanted my collection to look. I needed to find models. I used girls I knew from the group as well as hair and make-up artists, and had to choose the music.
- 7 On the day of the show I was terrified. My models turned up late and I thought everything was going to be a failure. I even found myself shouting! Luckily everything ended going smoothly and all my hard work paid off.
- 8 Now I’m studying fashion at a local college. I still find it hard to speak in class, but I’m much more confident. I want to work in fashion and feel so lucky that I’ve had the chance to turn my life around.”

- 1p 20 Waarom werd Chantal (op school) de ‘silent twin’ genoemd? (alinea 1)
- A Haar tweeling zus regelde altijd alles voor haar.
 - B Ze maakte moeilijk contact met medeleerlingen.
 - C Ze was niet echt geïnteresseerd in haar medeleerlingen.
- 1p 21 Wat was Chantals voornaamste bezigheid in het weekend? (alinea 2)
- A huiswerk maken
 - B tijdschriften lezen
 - C uitgaan
 - D werken in een kledingzaak
- 1p 22 Welke zin uit alinea 3 past het best bij het karakter van Chantal zoals dat beschreven is in alinea 1 t/m 3?
- A I decided I had to take part in the fashion-show.
 - B I never believed I’d be good enough.
 - C I was interested to find out more.
- 2p 23 Wat mochten winnaars van de modewedstrijd gaan doen? (alinea 3)
Schrijf twee dingen op.
- 1p 24 Door de samenwerking met Asabi kwam Chantal er volgens alinea 4, achter dat
- A het lastig is om te moeten werken met iemand die je niet kent.
 - B niet iedereen een gemakkelijk leven heeft
 - C ze niets wist over de problemen van vluchtelingen uit Afrika.
- 2p 25 Vul in wat Chantal zelf moet doen en wat anderen voor haar doen volgens alinea 5.
Kies uit: muziek uitzoeken, kapsels verzorgen, stoffen uitzoeken, modellen zoeken.
Vul het schema in je uitwerkbijlage in.
- 1p 26 Waaruit blijkt dat niet alles goed verliep op de dag van de show? (alinea 6)
- A Chantal begon zelfs te schreeuwen.
 - B Een aantal modellen zegde af.
 - C Er was te weinig geld om alle medewerkers uit te betalen.
- 1p 27 Wat maakt Chantal duidelijk in alinea 7?
- A Ze durft nu meer dan vroeger.
 - B Ze heeft veel vrienden op school.
 - C Ze vindt haar studie erg makkelijk.

- 1p 28 Waarvan wordt Arjen Robben beschuldigd in onderstaand artikel?
- A doen alsof
 - B dopinggebruik
 - C schelden op de scheidsrechter
 - D spugen naar een tegenstander

IS DIVING RUINING FOOTBALL?

Dutch football player Arjen Robben created an uproar at Stamford Bridge because player José Reina's weak push sent Arjen tumbling to the ground as if he'd been punched. Reina was sent off by the referee as a result of the incident. Some commentators are blaming the influence of foreign players for the increase in such theatrics. Others have asked if divers could be punished afterwards with the help of video replays. Robben is not the first offender but he could be the last!

- 1p 30 Catherine wil graag uit met de beste vriend van haar ex.
Welk advies geeft George aan Catherine?
A Laat die jongen duidelijk merken dat je met hem uit wilt.
B Vergeet die jongen want daar komen alleen problemen van.
C Vraag of je ex-vriend een goed woordje voor je doet.

boy things

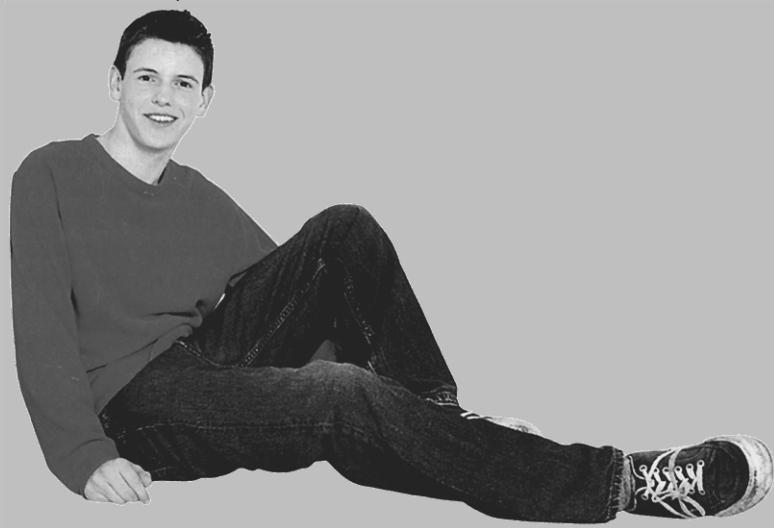

George Utley, 16, knows how boys' minds work.
And he's willing to reveal it all - just for you.

Dear George

My boyfriend and I split up six months ago and recently I've been spending a lot of time with his best friend. I'd really like to ask him out (the best friend, that is) but I don't know how my ex-boyfriend will react.
What do you think?

Catherine, 15, Aberystwyth

If they're best friends, they're sure to have talked about a million times before, especially over the last six months. So both your ex-boyfriend and his friend will know exactly how each other feels about you. Don't ask your ex's best friend out, just make it quite clear to him that you want to go out with him. That way, if he wants to, he'll ask you out. But if he knows his mate will have a problem with the situation, he won't.

Tekst 15

- 1p 31 Waarom durfde Beyoncé niet op de foto met een hele grote krokodil?
- A Ze schrok toen ze de verwondingen van de krokodillentrainer zag.
 - B Ze vond dat er te weinig plakband om de bek van de krokodil zat.
 - C Ze werd bang omdat de krokodil er zo hongerig uitzag.

Such a cutie!

For her new album cover, Beyoncé only agreed to pose with an alligator if its mouth was taped shut. "The first alligator they got was 13 feet long", Beyoncé says. "They were like, 'He's fine. He just ate.' But then I saw his trainer, who had stitches and a bloody head. I said,

'No thank you, we'll just have to add the photo in production.' But I did hold a baby one. He was really cute, but since his mouth was taped, he didn't have any way to defend himself.

He was upset,
so he peed

1p 32 Op een chatsite staat de volgende stelling:

Playing violent videogames like Grand Theft Auto en Bully can make you care less about violence in real life, true or not?

Wie vindt dat computerspelletjes geen geweld uitlokken?

- A Laura
- B Jenah
- C Sarah
- D Dale
- E Maddie

I don't understand how anyone would want to play violent computer games. They inspire young people to start getting into crime. And why on earth people think that a violent game will keep them calm I just can't understand.

Laura, 14, Stubbington

Violent video games are not necessary - let alone entertaining. The more you play the more you get used to violent actions. If you really need to work off anger why not start a sport - join a gym! Your health will be benefiting too.

Jenah, 18, New Zealand

How can you not put 2 and 2 together? Violent crimes in America caused by teenagers are increasing and so is the number of violent games they play. When we had Tecken 3 my brother tried all the moves on me.

Sarah, 16, Guildford

Games reflect what happens in real life. It's good for you to play violent games as well so you can release your anger in a virtual world. Most kids figure out that you shouldn't do the things you see in real life.

Dale, 15, Haddenham

I think violent games can have very bad effects on people because a child could very easily be inspired to try out some of the moves on real people just for fun. I think it will encourage young people to use violence or harm others out of spite.

Maddie, 17, Haslemere

- 1p 33 Wat ging er mis toen Marvin als grap op een kleedhokje klopte?
- A Het was de verkeerde deur.
 - B Zijn vriendin had door dat hij het was.
 - C Zijn vriendin was al lang uit het kleedhokje.

My girlfriend and I were out one day at the shopping mall. She found some clothes to try on and I was so mad at her for taking so long in the fitting room. She had picked out a lot of clothes and we had already been in the same store for about an hour and a half, so I decided to trick her to make the process go faster. I disguised my voice and banged on the door and said, "Excuse me, you're taking too long!" and kept knocking and knocking.

Suddenly the door opened and out came a pretty ticked off woman. I had knocked on the wrong door. I was mortified so I took off running down the aisles. After my friend finally came out of the changing room I told her what had happened, and all she did was laugh! That's the last time I'm going shopping with her again!
